

Community & Education Sector Programs

Empowering Our Community: Sustainable Foundations for All

Who is it designed for?

This comprehensive program is tailored for the Voluntary, Community, and Social Enterprise (VCSE) sector, including charities, social enterprises, and community groups. Additionally, it provides bespoke Education Programmes for Schools, benefiting the entire school community, including staff, parents, carers, and suppliers. It aims to support non-profit and educational entities within the community.

Why it benefits the Local Authority?

This combined program significantly benefits the Local Authority by upleveling the sustainability skills and awareness for both the large VCSE sector and educational bodies within the council landscape. Given that education bodies have significant carbon and social impacts, positively influencing them can significantly improve the local community's overall sustainability and well-being. This ensures vital community support services remain viable and educational institutions contribute to broader climate action.

What participants gain out of the program?

For VCSEs, the training builds crucial sustainability knowledge and skills to ensure their long-term viability. It enables these organisations to effectively answer questions on funding applications to continue supporting their beneficiaries and increases their capacity to contribute to local employment, service delivery, and community development.

For schools, the programs instil sustainability knowledge and values in young people through interactive programs, while also reducing the carbon impact of the school community and broadening sustainability knowledge throughout the wider community.
